MISS BRADY A SYRIAN HEROINE IN NEW PLAY, "ANNA ASCENDS"

"Anna Ascends."

15.000 MARCH IN G. A. R.

Held in Indianapalis.

Popular Star Has Role Well Suited to Her in Latest Melodrama.

The new drama at the Playhouse is called "Anna Ascends," and it is the work of Harry Chapman Ford, a playwright hitherto unknown to fame. Wiltheatrs, presented the work last night with Miss Alice Brady as its Star. She plays one of the "interesting Eastern" heroines that have acquired sudden sopularity in our theatre since Samuel Shipman proved among other things that East is West, But she is Eastern with a difference. She is Syrian. But she pensesses all the traits of these deter-mined young women. Biting her enemy on the arms, for instance, is her favorite mode of defence.

She gets hold of an American flag. sings "The Star Spangled Banner," learns the language and keeps right on in her determination to become an emi-ent American even with the interruption of her work as a waitress in a Wash-ington etreet coffee house. She not only comes to know a young student of so clology here, but so impresses a native hanger-on that he decides Anno shall employ her charms on the pavement But as for Anne-she goes right on as-
